

Incident

Summary

On Thursday, 16 November, Jassie, a former moderator of the Bits and Bytes server, displayed unacceptable behaviour to Vrabbers, another moderator and members of the community. Hence, Jassie was demoted from her moderator position on Bits and Bytes.

Details

- Jassie “jokingly” starts to call Vrabbers disgusting.
- Vrabbers gets annoyed and retaliates.
- Jassie says “Love you too mate”.
- Vrabbers replies, saying what she had said was “passive-aggressive”.
- Jassie states that she does not understand what it means.
- Vrabbers states that Jassie should have learned the meaning of the word “passive-aggressive” at school, and that it is a very common word.
- Jassie subsequently retaliates, and Vrabbers justifies his stance.
- Jassie notes that Vrabbers is annoying her.
- Vrabbers asks Jassie not to call him “dumb” from that point onwards.
- Jassie claims that she calls Vrabbers “dumb” jokingly and remarks “can’t live in the past forever”.
- A member of the public sends an emoji, to which Jassie responds “Fuck off with your DAMN emoji”.
- Another member of the public quotes “can’t live in the past forever” and politely asks Jassie to remove the “o” filter from JXBot.
- Jassie claims that the phrase “o” annoys her, hence keeping the filter in JXBot.
- Cameron, an admin of the server is overseeing this sequence of events and initiates a conversation with Victor in a private staff channel.
- The conversation in the staff channel leads to Cameron asking Jassie to remove the “o” filter from JXBot.
- Jassie continues to refuse to remove the “o” filter.
- Cameron gives Jassie two options; either remove the “o” filter, or kick JXBot.
- Jassie tells Cameron to blame Reflectron for the “o” filter.
- Jassie also claims the “o” filter is not annoying any members of the public.
- Cameron and Jassie continue to argue in circles.
- Eventually Cameron tells Jassie that her attitude towards Vrabbers and the general public was also unacceptable.
- Jassie attempts to justify her attitude by stating that she has “not been this angry since 2015”.
- Cameron demotes Jassie.
- Jassie deletes all her bots, including JXBot.

I hope this post-mortem explains the sequence of events preceding Jassie's demotion well enough. If you have any questions (about this), feel free to ask Cameron.